How the Millionaires Fight. How the Millionaires Fight.

In Washington, during the early part of the war, we heard a vast deal of enthusiastic admiration expressed by New Englanders in regard to the alacrity with which the richest young men of their brave and devoted section had, at the earliest call to arms after the fall of Fort Sunter, rushed to the defense of their country. We heard a prominent Rhode Islander say, that, one day at Willard's Hotel, he saw six good-looking young men in the dress of common soldiers at dinner. Expressing surprise that soldiers could afford the means to board at so costly a hotel, he was told by the gentleman next to him that those six the gentleman next to him that those six with the operations of the rascals, for their youths, wearing the garb and doing the duties of soldiers, were worth at least six millions of dollars. We were a little sur- thieves and robbers in the bureau wer prised at the statement, but couldn't help wondering how the young millionaires would fight, and we rather presumed that they fully expected the Southern chivalry

The Nomination of Sickles.

Sickles had a long Interview with President Grant County of the Sickles's nomination was opposed by Summer, Anthony and others.—(Washington Dispatch, April 18.

Sickles's nomination as minister to Mexico was scandalous. It was disgraceful. The New York Evening Poet, an organ of his own party, bitterly denounces it. That paper says with truth that the infamy of his personal character unfits him to occupy any decent position. But why did the President nominate him and thus incur the mortifying necessity of withdrawing his nomination? Didn't the President know that he was unfit for high place just as well been discovered in the caves of Lockout Mountain, Tennesse. It is said to be superior to Peravian guaso.

Radical Senators, it seems, declared, at the meeting of the Foreign Relations Comthe meeting of the Foreign Relations Committee on Thursday, that persons were as signed from their States 'to places abroad whom they had not recommended, and who did not, so far as they knew, belong there. Bad and indifferent as many of the appointments are, we are not ready to express confidence that any better selections would have been made if the advice of Sonates and been selected at the selections are the selections and the selections are tainly the opinions of good mea, men to be relied on in all cases, should have been taken. The great objection to Grant in regard to appointments, not only foreign but domestic, is that he sots upon his own judgment and feeling, selecting his family and friends as the objects of official patronage, or consults only h's personal favorites and those who manage to flatter him the most adroitly or the worst ablesty. He makes more appoint. most abjectly. He makes more appointments and poorer ones than any other President ever made, and if, by means of some fortunate series of events, he should fall under the control of good and jud!cious counselors, it would be a happy thing for the nation. But we don't know where in his party there is the slightest probability of his finding the good and Ju-dicious counselors.

The decision given two or three days ago by Chief-Justice Chase, in the case of the State of Texas against Geo. W. White and others, is likely, if the views and arguments of the Chief Justice shall be sustained and carried out in practice, to prove highly important in its consequences. The direct and immediate result, in the particular case and immediate result, in the particular case adjudicated, is to restore to the State of Texas the right of property in certain bonds of the United States, known as the Texas Indemnity Londs, to the amount of about $300,000. But the most important point involved in the decision is the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court in the case. The suit was brought by the States Coverment of Taxas which Court in the case. Interpret the State Government of Texas, which, by the act of March 2, 1867, Congress pronounced "illegal;" one of those which, by the act of July 19, 1867, Congress declared the "not laral State governments." It was admitted, that, unless the suit was actually brought by a State of the Union, the Court decided that the plaintiff, that is the State of Texas, is and was when the suit was begun in 1867, actually and legally the State of Texas, and as when the suit of State of Texas and a State of the Union.

According to this decision, Texas has never ceased to be a State, her act of secession was void, and every similar act of every other State must be void. No site has at any time left the Union. The governments established by the Confederates were indeed void, and their acts of the United States.

The reason is this is, that the reputation of the Waitham Watch residers it an gasy sale, and the result is, that though the dealer does not make as more money on each individual watch as he may on the saic of other watches, he is still the gainer through larger and tivelier sales. There are some, however, among the trade, who do not give the Waitham Watch that heart support which it describers. This portion o the trade fancy there is more money to be made by dealing in watches about which the public are ignorant; in which there is less competition, and are content to make an occasional sale of such watches at a large profit. It is this class of dealers who, when asked about Waitham Watched use that kind of isanguage which leads the customer finally to buy just such a watch as is the most profitable for the dealer to sell. For the information of persons about to buy a watch, and who may be unfavorably affected by the representations of those undriendly to our watches, we call attention to the following segrestions:

Since the manufacture of watches was initiated at Waitham, the company have made and sold about 400,000 watches. In every town and village of the country some water of a Waitham, which may be found. We are not afraid to advise those who wish to buy a waich to guide themselves by the answer. Being satisfied as to the quality of the watch, the buyer has now only to satisfy himself that the Waitham Watches are THE CHRAPEST as well as she best. On this bead we have a few words to say:

It is a well known fact in manufactured by one establishment, the smaller will be the cost of such individual article. Keeping this in viter, our policy has always been to sell our products at the lowest possible price in order to secure large saiss, and thus enable us to gasonfacture watches at a minimum cost. WE BELIEVE IN SAÍALL PROFITS AND LARGE BUSINESS. This policy we have successfully carried out, and the result is, that to-day we manufacture wive as many watches as all the other factories in the United States put together. We can, therefore, afford to sell Cheaper than they AND ITS VARIETY. We have had the retural of nearly all inventions intended to improve time-pieces, and have adopted all those, and those only, which have proved je be really valuable. We have retained in our employment every need of a department we have ever had, whose services were of any importance to the Company, and our present errae of designers and master mechanise cannot be equaled in this or any other country. In addition to this, we make gold and silver cases, not only for our own movements, but for those of other factories, ours balag the only establishment that turns out watches complete in every respect.

ing use only establishment that turns out watches complete in every respect.

As these Watches are for sale by the trade generally throughout the United States, and at a resail profit made most reasonable by competition, the Company invariably decline orders of a retail character. BOBBINS & APPLETON, General Agents, 182 BRODWAY, N. Y.

A Paris Journal says it has been discovered that if the blades of cutting tools are steeped in an acid solution, composed of sulphuric acid and water, in the proportion of one of the former to twenty of the latter, they will become as sharp as if ground, and will only require to be finished on the hone. The length of immersion must be sugmented, we are told, seconding to the figures of the edge. length of immersion must be sugmented, we are told, according to the flurness of the edge required, but nothing is said about the average time required. At any rate, it is an experiment any non-con-II.

The Abbe Deguerry has been preaching to The Abbe Deguerry has been preaching to fashlocable Paris against the fashlors, during Lent. Here is a paragraph from one of his discourses: "Oh, my sisters, what can be the meaning of the slight covering you wear on your shoulders? What can, every eventry, be the motive of the absence of sleeves to your dresses? With these eyes have I beheld ladies of the most irreproachable character spending their whole evening in catching at their shoulder straps lest their dresses should fall off entirely, and this is not from any feeling of propriety, but from the dread of moon-venience."

The New Galvanic Battery.

A new galvanic battery has been recently invented. It consists in a combination of metallic bars of dissimilar metals, so arranged together as to constitute a very compact, yet powerful and constant pile, without clottas or any other porous substance essential in the construction of the voltale pile, and without caustic said, as employed in galvanic batteries. These several bars are made of two or more metals and fixed in a regularly alternating series; as, for example, one bar of zinc or zinc magnesium is soldered at its ends to the next bar as its fellow, which bar may be of copper, brass or yellow metal, or gutta-percha, and so on through the whole series contained in the battery frame-holder.

A Delightial Book.

Those of our readers who have not the time for heavy reading, and who desire to while away an hour agreeably, should provide them-solves with a copy of Thackeray's "Early and Late Papers," issued since his detth, and by far the most charming collection of inimitable essays and sketches. The article entitled "The Memorials of Gourmandizing" is an essays and sketches. The article entitled "The Memorials of Gourmandizing" is an epic of itself. Nothing could be more appetizing. Nothing has ever been written in which the great question of what to eat was handled with so much philosophy and skill. Thackersy's keen appreciation of the science of cooking and dining is wonderful. No modern writer has treated the subject of vitnals so admirably, and he has done more to establish the rank and importance of the good cook than Soyer himself.

Our Pashionable Passage Birds.

Already the question is being asked, "Where will you go for the summer?" Why sensible people should leave comfortable homes, where they can do as they please, to rush off during the sweltering summer days and undergo all of the discomforts of maty little eight by ten rooms in the top of watering place hotels, and subject themselves to all the extortions of backmen, servants, hotels and steamboats, is one of the mystories of the age. But so it is. Crowds of our citizens will ere long commence the wild hunt for re-creation they leave behind them at home. A great deal of money will be foolishly and extravagantly spent in the pursuit of a chimers. Many devoices of the world and fashion will doubtless think poorly of themselves for not being able to leave the city, because it is fashionable; but shrewd once will stay and enjoy heir own vine and fig tree.

The Twitchells.

The statement of Mrs. Twitchell and the letters of her husband to her are the missing links which fixed the guilt upon George 8.

The statement of Mrs. Twitchell and the letters of her husband to her are the missing links which fixed the gullt upon George 8. Twitchell of murdering his mother-in-law. Mrs. Twitchell's statement seems crealible enough and the truth of it is strengthened by the suggestions and proposed confessions for her to make embraced in her husband's letters to her. This horrible mystery is at length made clear. As a case it will rank with the most atroclous of the celebrated cases of England and France. It will be remembered Mrs. Twitchell pronounced her husband "the greatest viliain on earth" upon hearing the so-called confession he made, and his letters to her proye him entitled to the uncaviable distinction beyond a doubt. It would aimost that it is not as a second of the great statement and it patronage, and they will and-avor to the first wand cold blooledness in the strength of the case of the confession he made, and only in the whole Missisappi Vy and visual value of the case of the coupled are we to be full the control of the coupled and visual value of the case of the coupled are we to be full the control of the coupled and visual value of the case of the coupled are we to be full the control of the case of the coupled and visual value.

The Triviality of the French Provincial Press.

A correspondent of the Cologno Gazette in the south of France writes as follows about the French provincial press: "A striking illustration of the mental stagnation of French provincial life is afforded by the wealthy commercial town of Cette, which, with 30,000 inhabitants, has not a single periodical newspaper, either political or literary, nor even an advertisement sheet, but is satisfied with a littographed list of the quotations on the exchange. In the department of the Heralit, which contains 400,000 inhabitants, the only representatives of the political press are two newspapers appearing at Montpeller, the capiwhich contains 400,000 inhabitants, the only representatives of the political press are two newspapers appearing at Montpeller, the capital. Of these one is the organ of the Government, the other that of the opposition. Both are mere echoes of the Parisian newspapers, utterly destitute of original views, and full of that washy Paris gossip which forms the cluster that the change a few office-direction of the Freuer political press. As for the two non-political papers of Montpelier, Le Lapin and Le Papillion, they are unspeak-bly silly and trivial."

Reflections for the Consideration [To the Editor of the Courier-Journal.]

BUSHY PARK, April 12, 1866

Although we live in the quiet and calmn of solicitude, we cannot remain insensible cal out to the dangers which threaten occuuntry, and from our retired home we had determined occasionally to address you a f follows, to wit:

"This grand enterprise, which was so much asked of, written oi, and worked for in this mercer) and several adjoining counties and Lon-aville, if seems is about to or has died a natural leath in the latter place. He hopes he has been country, and from our retired home we have determined occasionally to address you a few lines apon political affairs.

Should the Constitution be destroyed, and the liberty of the people thereby lost, Kentucky can at least say that she did her utmost to stem the tide of popular frenzy, and to the end remained faithful to the teachings of her illustrious Clay and the founders of lin 1788 Kentucky was the first to proclaim and defend the rights of the States, and to denounce the infamous alien and sedition laws, and the policy which she then inaugurated continued to be the policy of the Government for more than sixty years, and during that whole period no nation ever prospered and fourished as did ours.

Then, as I have already said, Mercer county had the controlling vote in this convention, and it was for this kint of man she voted through her proxy, in the face of carnest protectations from the more substantial members of this matter of carnest protectations from the more substantial members of the third that the members of the matter of the matter than the more county's proxy at least cannot help seeing the error committed by him.

Again he says in his article "Before taking the vote in that county upon the subject of taking stock to the amount of $300,000, the unif-mitted boasting and promises of the city of Louisville induced a large number of us in this county to believe that it might be they were in carnest."

Again, he says: "But 'its not our purpose to criticise, only to show that Louisville does not want any more roads."

I think our friend, Mr. Wood, of the Signal, has signally failed to set forth any argument in his article to show any such king. The city of Lonisville is fast shuffling off the rusty colin of old fogyism, and donning instead the brilliant sent of young America.
